The Reds defender's last competitive appearance in a Liverpool shirt was the FA Cup tie against Carlisle United in January, after recovering from a knee injury. Carragher's late intervention forced a 0-0 draw at Anfield, and while he has been tipped to feature at Burnley on Tuesday night he admits he is unlikely to get a call-up. "I would never mind moving someone on because I want more competition for places," he said at the launch of the 18th annual Masters 2011 event. "We always seem to say they have to be better than the next player. I'm not sure that's always right. You've got to be better than the player you replace. It can't be that if you're so good, he should stay." Carragher also admitted that he never wants to return to Anfield as a spectator. "I don't want to be a spectator at Anfield ever again," he said. "I don't want to go in and watch. It would be too disappointing. "I remember walking in after the second leg [of the European Cup semi-final against Chelsea in 1995] and I saw everyone inside the stadium. It was great but that's not my norm." Carragher recently completed the Climb To Greatness project with ex-teammate Steve McManaman and he also urged youngsters to stick to their dream. "I always said be

(Facebook) The ICRC (International Committee of the Red Cross) is deeply saddened by the death of Zdenka Kubáni who, at the age of 83, had been receiving psychological support for some months, in the refugee camp of Atenla. Her condition, described as a "profound and long-lasting state of anxiety, which was generating an unbearable sense of fear and causing a multitude of physical symptoms," had recently deteriorated and she was admitted to the Central Hospital in Neuquén in December 2018 where she died four days later. A well-known expat in Argentina, Ms. Kubáni was a frequent visitor to the camp and, at the time of her death, was working as a voluntary teacher with 82138339de
