are those that allow the production of devices and circuits in smaller sizes. Devices that detect the properties of smoke and also create smoke indoors are called smoke extractors. They are gas outlet, with a gas duct, open and closed type. In order to carry out the installation of a chimney, you need to choose the appropriate type of its design. In order to choose them, you need to clearly understand what you want from the device. Directly in order to carry out the installation of the chimney, you will need to call the professionals of our company, who will perform all the necessary work for you. We will select for you a convenient way to deliver the goods, since almost all customers want to make a purchase without leaving their home or office. When choosing a chimney design, you can contact our qualified specialists at any time for advice, which will allow you to make the right choice. Our qualified specialists carry out the installation of chimneys of various designs, and all work performed will be carried out taking into account your individual requirements and wishes. By creating an efficient ventilation system, it is possible to ensure the effective removal of flue gases from basements and other premises, which means that it is possible to reduce the load on the ventilation system and provide the necessary air exchange in the room. Installing a chimney is a rather complicated process, on which the efficiency of the further operation of the chimney will largely depend. The installation of a chimney must be carried out subject to careful system design. It is important that the chimney be installed at a certain distance from the stove, hood and other heating appliances in order to reduce the percentage of condensation. The cost of the service is from 1200 rubles per 1 sq.m. depending on the complexity of the project. When concluding a contract for the installation of a chimney system, our specialists are ready to perform additional work on the installation of a smoke collector, cleaning the smoke channels and the inner surface of the chimney from soot. If you purchased a stove or fireplace on your own site, then installing a chimney requires its mandatory connection to the chimney, which is not always possible to do on your own. The standard scheme for connecting the chimney to the furnace includes laying pipes through the roof, as well as installing chimneys to the roof of the furnace. In our company, you can order and build a chimney that does not require installation in wall openings or ceilings. The price of a chimney depends on its complexity and other characteristics. If you have design and other technical documents for the chimney and stove, this will greatly simplify our work. If there are no project documents, then our specialists can provide you with comprehensive support to help you correctly develop the project and calculate the necessary cost
