MR imaging with a low-dose (0.3 mmol/kg) Gd-DTPA and power Doppler sequence was performed to compare the diagnostic efficacy of color Doppler velocimetry with that of dynamic infusion urography in the evaluation of hemodynamically significant renal lesions. Fifty-one consecutive patients (25 men and 26 women, mean age 50 +/- 14.6 years) underwent both examinations. First, renal lesions were studied with color Doppler velocimetry, which showed the presence of increased renal arterial and/or venous blood flow signals in 31 patients. Secondly, the patients were given an infusion of 8 mg of Gd-DTPA per kilogram of body weight and examined immediately afterward with contrast-enhanced, first-pass, fast spin-echo MR imaging. The magnetic resonance images were evaluated by 2 radiologists who were blinded to the findings of the color Doppler study. Final diagnoses of the renal lesions were made by either biopsy or surgical findings and were compared to the findings with color Doppler velocimetry and contrast-enhanced infusion urography. With color Doppler velocimetry, the specificity and accuracy of

Have you ever wanted to send images and logos to your mobile phone? If your answer is yes, then you probably know that the only way to send these files is to have a mobile phone compatible with them. SmartSMS is an interesting and easy to understand software solution that was created to provide you with the means of sending images, logos or ringtones from your computer to GSM mobile phones, like Nokia, Alcatel, Siemens, Ericsson, Motorola or Sagem. In order to install the program, it is best that you use your administrator privileges when running the executable, so as to avoid the risk of errors. Afterward, you can launch the utility right away and begin sending pictures to your friends or family through messages. However, bear in mind that you need to have a functional Internet connection via Modem (Dial-up) or TCP/IP protocol, for the application to be able to send the photos. For starters, you will need to select the mobile phone operator that you intend to use, then input the recipient's name and phone number, using a predefined format which includes a double zero, the country code and the phone number without the initial zero. SmartSMS lets you load a photo from your computer in GIF, JPG, BMP, NOL or NGG format, but also offers you the possibility of drawing the image yourself, using the built-in 'Paint' component that lets you choose the size, then start clicking on the squares to color them in black or white. Aside from the picture, SmartSMS also lets you attach a message of up to 120 characters, so the recipient can have a better understanding of what you are sending them. Moreover, the tool lets you send ringtones, in RTTTL format to your friends, as well as 'FlashSMS', to compatible devices. Why invest in smsGuru With smsGuru, you can easily send text messages, pictures, logos and ringtones to all mobile phone operators. Even though the basic version of the software is free, you can try the trial version for 30 days, and you can buy a license for $17.99 or a subscription for $19.99. Moreover, while you might be limited in the quantity of SMS you can send, with smsGuru, you will be able to send unlimited SMS between your computer and any cellphone or smartphone. This product supports all mobile operators, and you
