A prospective study was conducted to compare the efficacy of the interactive tutorial (CBL) and didactic lectures in learning orthopaedics. Sixty-eight students were enrolled in the study. Learning was conducted for 4 weeks in each group, with no lectures during the third and fourth week in the CBL group.

Each tutorial group consisted of 6 students, while each lecture group consisted of 12 students. The mean grades for the final examinations in the CBL group were better than those in the lecture group. The CBL group also scored higher than the lecture group in terms of the mean scores for the objective examination. Moreover, the percentage of students who demonstrated a grade of 50% or greater, 80% or greater, or 90% or greater in all subjects in the CBL group was significantly higher than that in the lecture group.The name Magick is derived from the White Earth-Magick tradition of the Pale, Northern and Western peoples. White Earth, though not a literal name, refers to a range of breathtakingly beautiful Algonquin lands in Northeastern Wisconsin and Northern Minnesota. White Earth means 'White earth'. More information about High Contrast on its website: High Contrast Description: High Contrast is an intuitive Chrome extension that lets you apply a handful of filters that can reduce eyestrain, and more importantly, make any page easier to read. Install it and test out the shades After the extension is added, you can access its menu by clicking the green icon from the extension bar. High Contrast sports a very simple menu, from where you can switch between the five available filters. You can also employ the use of a couple of buttons and hotkeys that let you disable the extension, or revert a page back to its normal view. A few words on filters By default, the application will make use of the Inverted Color filter, which in most situations applies a dark theme to the pages. If the dark background is incorrigible or doesn't help with your reading, you can switch to the rest of the filters and see which one is best for you. The first in line Increased Contrast keeps the original theme but amps up the contrast, making the colors stronger. The Grayscale/Grayscale Inverted effect, however, removes all color, causing your screen to look like an early black and white screen. As for the Yellow on Black filter, this one will cover everything in shades of yellow and black.

Stay tuned! :) [more...] Astronaut Software, a division of Astrodome Software, Inc. in 1984 launched the first comprehensive Windows-based GPS. Designed exclusively for aviation and marine navigation, the unit delivered all of the features necessary to make pilots confident that they could use the Garmin GPS for safe and economical trips. In the late 1980's, when aviation navigation became a common practice, Astronaut Software developed the world's first handheld GPS unit for use by pilots, boaters and even hikers. It was the first navigational tool to give pilots accurate information in real-time on a moving map which was entirely transparent without requiring any custom installation. Astronaut Software continued to develop military and commercial GPS units over the next quarter of a century, supporting the industries that used them. In 1991, Astronaut Software purchased NavStar, a world leader in aviation navigation and GPS technology, to further increase the quality and sophistication of our products. NavStar units continue to drive today's GPS devices for the aviation, marine, mining, and mobile industries around the world. At the time of NavStar's acquisition by Astronaut Software, our GPS product line was 70% of the global aviation market and growing quickly with more than 50% market share in the military GPS business, the largest and most sophisticated segment of our products. We expanded our product offerings to cover all types of technology including weather, handheld, ground stations, computer-based flight planning and mapping and flight deck products. The intention of the Astronaut Software
