Zoning by-law that defines types of use, height and floor area ratio limits applicable to new structures in Vancouver History & Background The area was historically used for farming. It was owned by the Gigney family until the mid-1970's. The land was developed as a small house subdivision in the 1960's. In 1987 the City of Vancouver acquired the property for purchase and subdivision for park and recreation purposes. It is now the home of the Pithouse Society, a non-profit society that offers educational and cultural programs to the public. The Harbour Center has been recently purchased by the University of British Columbia and has plans to begin construction of three 12 story towers. The buildings will become part of the university's in-development student housing and campus residential district. (KOIN) — The Royal Gorge Bridge and Park is getting a new name. City officials announced Tuesday that the park will now be called the Royal Gorge City Park and Royal Gorge Bridge and Park. The park was renamed after a $70 million renovation and expansion project was completed in 2017. The park's offices will keep the same address as the old visitors center, 3700 SW Gorge Blvd. As part of the name change, the Royal Gorge Tramway Company will be renamed as part of the company's national name change. The tramway company, which has been rebranded as the Royal Gorge Rides, will be renamed as Royal Gorge Rides of Colorado. Some changes will be coming to the park's trails with the rebranding, as well. The new name, logo, and identity will be unveiled at a news conference scheduled for May 3. City officials expect the rebranding to have a $1.9 million economic impact. Follow Dylan Baddour on Twitter: @BaddourDylanQ: Is it 82138339de
