the Three-Factor Eating Questionnaire (TFEQ) and Body Attitudes Questionnaire (BAQ) into Russian, English, Latvian, Turkish, Portuguese and Spanish to assess their psychometric properties in other cultures. Adults (N = 1006) from 12 countries were recruited. Psychometric properties of the questionnaires were evaluated in parallel (study 1), and a 3-group test-retest reliability analysis was conducted in a subsample (N = 66) from study 1 (study 2). The current report shows that the original and translated versions of the TFEQ and BAQ were reliable and valid indicators of eating attitudes and body attitudes, respectively, among Russian, English, Latvian, Turkish, Portuguese and Spanish speaking populations..S. 590, 68 S.Ct. 736, 92 L.Ed. 889 (1948); Berry Petroleum Co. v. Adams & Peck, 518 F.2d 402, 410 (2d Cir.1975) (if state's representative is a party, not named as such, suit is not against party, but against state). 6 On appeal, the Department argues that the court erred in instructing the jury as to the defense of good faith and in precluding the Department from introducing evidence regarding the good faith of its conduct. In view of our determination that the district court did not err in refusing to submit the good faith defense to the jury, we need not decide these issues

Links:Trenches The United Nations considers 1918 to be the start of the Second World War. The International Court of Justice has, however, declared that there is no fixed starting point of the “Trinity wars”. But for the purposes of this site, the “Trinity wars” (and others) began in 1916. What was the West’s response to the Bolshevik Revolution in Russia? The founding of a new Communist State in 1917, which had been left by the Tsarist regime, so traumatised the world’s democracies that they decided to make a fresh start. That was a response to the “Revolutionary War” in 1917-18, but it went further: five years after the Revolution, the two World Wars started. Responses, as they became relevant, followed after the Bolsheviks’ victory over the “White Guards” (and German and Allied forces) in January 1919. Some were expressed by the advancing victorious Communist armies, others by the “Anti-Bolshevik forces” (White, Red, and Allied forces). Some of these followed the Declaration of the Soviet Republic on 10 November 1918 and the subsequent Bolshevik seizure of power on 25 October. Others were delayed until the Red Army’s victory at the battle of Vitebsk in July 1919. Not least of these were anti-Bolshevik (“White”) counter-revolutionary and independence movements, which mainly took up the post-1917 form of “nationalism”. The human impact of these wars is described in the 1919 and the subsequent editions of Yearbooks of the International Committee of the Red Cross (including their final volume published in 1947). These describe the estimated victims. Although the exact figures are much disputed and have come
