Justice is not made for the state, but the state for justice. The state is obliged to obey God's law, and justice to recognize his will." -Horace Mann Tuesday, September 19, 2006 WHO IS RAY HUBBARD? The charges against this man, to be made public in court tomorrow, are the same as those filed against John Walker Lindh, the American citizen who enlisted in the Taliban, was captured in Afghanistan and later released by a private treaty negotiated by Congress. Mr. Hubbard was a former drug addict who came under the care of the Church of Scientology, according to his lawyer. His parents sent him to the group's Florida headquarters in Clearwater in the early 1980s, according to Richard W. Roberts, a lawyer for Mr. Hubbard. Mr. Roberts said that the Church did not pay for the drug treatment and that Mr. Hubbard remained in the care of Scientology for an average of seven years. Mr. Hubbard left the organization in 1985 and moved to Arizona, where he lived with his parents, according to a family spokesman. Within a few years, he began abusing drugs and alcohol again, and returned to the Church's front, the spokesman said. Mr. Roberts said that Mr. Hubbard was "an alcoholic, a drug addict," and that in the early 1990s, Mr. Hubbard tried to declare bankruptcy in order to escape from creditors, including the Church. Mr. Hubbard's mother, Miriam Moon, said Occ13bf012

At the end of the season, she returned to Jutta's house to stay for a while. Meanwhile, Tatiana and Grisha find out that Anton has been spying on Grisha and uses Tatiana as a cover. When the story comes out, Tatiana gets drunk and tells the police that she had an affair with Anton, who is then sent to prison for a year. One day, Grisha receives a letter from Tatiana. She is now working in the cargo department of a car dealership, and the letter is about the car she got from Anton. Tatiana regrets everything, and hopes that someday he will be released from prison. Grisha promises to keep in touch, and she tells him that she and Anton are planning to get married. Epilogue While it is unclear what happens to Anton and Grisha after the story ends, it is known that their careers took off and they remain in contact with Tatiana. Tatiana gets married to Anton's friend Mikhail, the head of a car dealership. After a few years, the wedding is over and the couple are divorced. Although she never fell in love, Grisha remains close to Tatiana, even after their divorce, and is often seen in their company.
