

A major driver of this new technology is the latest generation of the Ignite engine, introduced with FIFA 18. This multi-award winning engine has enabled more complex data-driven artificial intelligence and game physics, using player movement data. The most important moment for this in-game artificial intelligence is the integration of the data into the game engine, allowing for smarter and more-fluid game-play, further fostering the player's experience. FIFA 22 also implements "Data Transfer Speed" for more accurate player transfers and Real Player Motion Technology, which enhances player behavior and facial expressions. Additionally, new gameplay scenarios based on real player movements are now more faithful and more intuitive. FIFA 22 will also see some major changes to the control scheme, designed to meet the demands of both experienced gamers and novice players. A new "Skill Stick" has been introduced, which allows players to control the ball by dragging their foot, like the original in FIFA 17. A new additional option on the Quick Start menu allows players to choose between "Standard" and "Experienced" Controls. In combination with these adjustments, the team and player AI are also made more intelligent, so that they respond to situations on the pitch and manage the game better. This includes advanced timing in pressing and shooting, which was previously not considered in the "Standard" controls. The aim is to make the control scheme more intuitive, so that players can focus more on the game and the challenges on the pitch. "We have been listening to feedback from our players for years," said EA SPORTS FIFA Community Manager Alexandre Vasilyev. "With FIFA 22, we've listened to what players wanted more than ever, and have made significant changes to the gameplay experience. This new title promises even more excitement and a highly-addictive and immersive experience, as it delivers all the best elements from previous titles, and now incorporates new technologies with a goal of even more next-generation gameplay innovations." Real Player Motion Technology - For the player's face to seamlessly and consistently reflect the movement of their body. Data Transfer Speed - For the player to be fully transferred and recognized, ready to play. Skill Stick - Allows players to control the ball with their foot. This element works in conjunction with the new, more advanced, data transfer system. Variety of Pre-Match Challenges - Players can now set up their own challenges

What's new in Fifa 22:

- FIFA 22 introduces "HyperMotion Technology," which uses motion capture data collected from 22 real-life players playing a complete, high-intensity football match in motion capture suits. The data collected from player movements, tackles, aerial duels and on-ball actions is used to power FIFA 22 gameplay. This new technology enriches how the ball moves during the match, when controlling through the air or kicking the ball, as well as during player movement. The in-game camera behind the forward will adapt according to players' actions, and when players press their new "V" button to pass, they will perform a run-up motion to move forward while passing. Players running with the ball will perform a clear run-up action to get into a sprinting position. In addition, the ball will move like its real-life counterpart during games. As EA have created a unique artificial intelligence system in FIFA, the game features more realistic ball physics and enhanced reactive animations.
- Stadiums around the world have been recreated with a new 3D model in FIFA 22. In addition to improved visuals and realistic fans, stadiums have been painted with updated kits and logos, as each club has now been represented. This includes Bayern Munich, who now have a new home kit. The club now also has a new profile that showcases its values, history and traditions.
- EA SPORTS in FIFA has made two big changes to Training: - New equipment: Your players will use a number of different new equipment for Training: football boots, shin guards, rugby/league boots and gloves, socks, mouth guards, even gloves for places where no hand is available. - The trick pass tactic - This tactic is available for Defenders and Center Backs, who can now copy a player's way of playing with the help of the ball. Defenders and Center Backs can receive the ball from training runs or from over-hit passes, and try to detect an opponent who is behind their player, before switching to their run-up and performing a trick pass or reset with their teammates. - Goalkeeper is getting updated, more defensive marking for players with panic is also a new feature implemented. - Wide screens allow you to customize the gameplay you want, from the easier access to match stats to display specs and a more immersive HUD, can be seen at
