Q: matching zero based characters in shell script and treating them as string I have a string which is something like this "0.35|0.48|2.36|5.48" I need to match each of 0.35,0.48,2.36,5.48 from the string and do some logic. I am not getting how to do this in shell script. If we say, if I have a string which is "0.35|0.48|2.36|5.48". I need to split on | character as mentioned above and then use regex to match each of these values in regex. I need to perform some logic on these
