StableBit Scanner is a free, commercial-quality application that monitors all of your hard drives continuously in the background. It scans for and identifies file changes and files lost due to hardware failure or system crash, or as a result of some irrecoverable operating system problem. It alerts you as soon as a problem is detected, along with a suggested solution. StableBit Scanner includes an installable diagnostic mode, that operates quietly in the background and can be used to identify the problems that cause your computer to hang or crash. In addition, the no-user-interaction installation mode is perfect for use as a Windows service. AutorunStarter is a small utility for Windows 2000 and XP. it allows you to define a Windows startup/shutdown sequence on one or more computers. For each computer it allows you to add or remove executable files that are to be automatically executed on startup or shutdown. Also, you can define when to start/stop the computer. The software is a replacement of the old autostart/autoruns scripts that are now removed in Windows Vista. If you have an autostart/autoruns scripts and you have to move them from one computer to another, this software allows you to do that easily. DVDSHrink is an easy to use DVD copier and decrypter. It is free but you can pay to remove the limitations of the free version. DVDSHrink will help you to copy almost any DVD with a bit of patience. You can modify the DVD copy to remove the DVD menus, rip out the DVD menus, copy off the menu data, add your own Menu or rip a DVD that doesn't have any menu at all. You can now also decrypt DVD CSS or AnyDVD protected DVDs, do this without fiddling with the DVD menu or decrypting the DVD. The program not only allows you to copy and decrypt a DVD it also contains a tool to strip the video off a DVD. So if your disc has been remastered or it is encoded in a newer DVD format, you can easily remove the NTSC video from the DVD. An automatic desktop back up utility. Start using your hard disk on day 1, keep using on the next. The program, when started, will automatically create a new file called backupfile. This new file will backup your desktop, home directory, every application installed, all files, settings and registry data you have. The program is the first
