What can I do? A: You can't call a constructor of a subclass from a constructor of a parent class. An alternative would be to change the method signature: public A() : this(new B()) { } public A(B newB) { this.constructorOfB(newB); } Opening a new door: The relation between crossmodal plasticity and perception. The relation between the functions of the visual and auditory systems is not one-way. Although more than 85 % of the cerebral cortex is devoted to the processing of visual information, cross-modal plasticity has been reported in association with other sensory modalities. Here, we review evidence that the relationship between the perceptive systems is more reciprocal than previously believed. We begin with a comparison of the function and structure of the visual and auditory systems and describe several promising lines of investigation, including the following: different modalities can share the same cortical neurons, the connectivity of unimodal cortical sensory areas is often strikingly similar to that of multimodal areas, and subregions of unimodal cortices have evolved to process information from both visual and auditory systems. We conclude that there is a vast repertoire of functions for multimodal integration, and that the nonvisual brain has evolved to achieve it.import { createAction } from'redux-actions'; import { ActionApprove } from './../src/types'; describe('Approve type', () => { const action: ActionApprove = createAction({ type: ActionApprove.Type, payload: { accountId: '123', description: 'good description' } }); it('returns a message
