The effect of pregnancy on bone density and body composition was studied in 20 pairs of multiparas, identical in age, weight and height at entry into the study (p less than 0.05). Between the first and second examination, two indexes of bone density and total body calcium were reduced and the proportion of total body fat increased. At the second examination, fat of the trunk increased and that of the extremities decreased. In contrast, no changes in bone mineral density were found. During pregnancy, the percent body fat increased, whereas the body weight remained unchanged. Between the first and second examination, body weight and fat content increased significantly, whereas lean body mass decreased. Changes in bone mineral density and body composition were highly correlated with changes in body weight and fat content. This suggests that the reduction in bone density during pregnancy may be due to an increase in the lean body mass and a decrease in fat mass. Pregnancy may also cause a relative immobilization, with increased fat content and reduced bone density of the extremities.Given it was a quiet lunch around the restaurant, diners were surprised to find another table-full of US President Donald Trump's son-in-law, Jared Kushner, eating lunch in Trump Tower with at least three other people, a video of which was uploaded to Twitter on Friday.
