That's how we're feeling after seeing these pieces of porn. In this new round of "retouched" porn we see guys with erect cocks that are at least 9 inches long and a scrotum that is way bigger than the rest of his body. It is pretty tough to get aroused by these images, especially since a lot of the time these guys are tied up or having sex with women. Some of them have enormous penises but if that is not enough, one site claims they will fix that so you can get in tune with your inner dickman. Not only are these guys having their cocks enlarged but they are also having their body fat taken off so these once delicious, large, muscular bodies have been made plastic and the girls have a tiny waist and big boobs. The most disturbing aspect of these images is the fact that someone is selling them for $48 to $50 for each session. For some reason, people are willing to pay for the services of these non-therapeutic professionals to make themselves look like porn stars. If this is not fappening then what is?Q: How do I create a dll which can be used in my assembly? I've looked around, but it's a bit confusing with the language used and what I actually need. I've written a program that is using static methods in other dll's and external dll's. I have it working now, but I want to speed it up a bit. I was thinking maybe using dll's and make myself a library that is meant to be used in this particular assembly. I used the protobuf library in.NET to achieve this. It seems like a long way of getting what I want, but I'd rather do it right and make sure it's the best approach. Is this possible? How do I go about doing this? What exactly do I need to do? A: You
