If it does not persists, delete the package and recompile the project. 1. Field of the Invention The present invention relates to a method and apparatus for providing alternate media for a radio listener. 2. Description of the Related Art A radio listener in North America is a captive consumer in that all radio signals available at any given time come from a local broadcast source. Therefore, if a listener is interested in listening to a particular program (e.g., a desired music type, sports team, or television program) via the radio, he or she must listen to the radio with available stations to obtain the desired program information. Such a passive listening approach to program content is becoming increasingly unappealing to some listeners. Therefore, there is a need for an improved method of providing programming to a listener in order to keep the listener interested and motivated to use and maintain the service. The effect of a low dose of inhaled beclomethasone dipropionate on the function of airway smooth muscle in normal man. The effect of a low dose (800 micrograms/day) of inhaled beclomethasone dipropionate (BDP) on airway reactivity to methacholine was studied in seven healthy subjects. Two tests of airway reactivity were performed: changes in specific airway resistance (SRaw) and airway conductance (Gaw) in
