The present invention relates to a game or sporting board, and more particularly to a game or sporting board for promoting board games or playing a sport or game of skill. Various board games or sporting games, and the manner in which a playing of such games is executed, are well-known in the art. Such board games generally include two or more players each having a playing surface and a number of playing pieces of the game to be played upon the playing surface. Other than playing pieces such as dice or cards, games of skill, such as chess or checkers, are typically not
