19.3.0, oracle database feature pack for odbc drivers 18.0.2.12, oracle database feature pack for oracle secure backup 18.1.1, and oracle database feature pack for oracle bio-medical applications 18. you can locate these files inside the install\oracledb folder.

to prevent a database crash if the database is started with incorrect settings, the "database_home" environment variable must be correctly set. the information in the following table shows what values you must set for different scenarios: scenario setting shutdown path start oracle_home start oracle_home you must always set your environment variable oracle_home to a location where the client libraries for the instance are stored. the default location of the client libraries is %oracle_home%\lib. you can change this on macos by editing the personal.plist file. this is also usable on windows. oracle database express edition ships with oracle pga enabled by default and must be disabled before use. it can be disabled by setting disable_oracle_autocleanup to true. to do this, edit the database_home/config/oracle.cfg file. then change the line with disable_oracle_autocleanup set to true and save the file. 5ec8ef588b
