Xposed framework for Android 9.0 is in development and will be officially released after Android.Caveolin-1 and caveolin-2 are differentially expressed in rat capillaries and arterioles. Caveolin-1 is a major structural protein of the caveolae and is found in most cell types. We measured caveolin-1 mRNA abundance and protein levels in normal rat kidney using real-time quantitative PCR and Western blotting, respectively, and in kidney from animals with experimental vascular disease and we compared the results with those for caveolin-2. We also compared the specificity and interspecies conservation of the sequence of the 3'-untranslated region of caveolin-1 and -2 in rat and mice with that for the human sequences. Caveolin-1 was very abundant in rat microvessels (circumcollateral and associated arterioles and glomerular capillaries) and, although mostly intracellular, was secreted into the filtrate of cortical nephrons. Caveolin-2 was generally less abundant than caveolin-1. In rats with experimental renal disease, both caveolin-1 and -2 mRNA levels were increased in the microvasculature (circumcollateral and glomerular arterioles and pre- and postglomerular capillaries) and
