PHILADELPHIA — It was a match made in an evolution. The Philadelphia Union have formed a soccer partnership with Jimmy Kimmel to develop skills for the increasingly popular sport. The “Seven Minutes in Mid-Summer” and the Sixers and Flyers and two-time Emmy Award winner are teaming with the Union to create games for kids and families. The goal is to introduce and inspire kids at each of the Union’s Saturday home games. “It’s great that he wants to use all the resources available to him, the people at the club,” Union President Nick Sakiewicz said. “Jimmy Kimmel is an icon. He’s been on our radio and TV since Day 1. He understands what the sport is.” Kimmel hopes to work with kids and coaching staff and then return to mid-sized stadiums to perform the skills demonstrations. “What I want to do is come out and challenge kids, give them what I learned on the streets and in college to give them a chance to dream big,” Kimmel said. “To give them a chance to dream and make it happen. I want to show them that you can be on TV, you can be a professional soccer player, you can be a leader. “You can make it. Anything is possible if you want it.” Sakiewicz said Kimmel is a perfect addition for Philadelphia and to the Union. “The Sixers and the Flyers are known for creating heroes, they’re known for creating legends, but they’re also known for doing something out of the norm,” Sakiewicz said. “It’s the same thing with Jimmy Kimmel and what he’
